WINONA ATTEMPTING TO "HIGH HAT" GRENADIANS

The Sentinel is passing along to its readers the following extract from an article in the Winona Times of last week and it wants to know if Grenadians are going to stand for Winona to lord it over her. It's almost unthinkable for Winona to be mentioned in the same breath with Grenada but that it is being done and in a braggadocio and boastful way is evidenced by the Winona paper's article. What is Grenada going to do about it?

The extract from the item follows:

"Last Thursday night a crowd of sixty-five from Grenada's Methodist and Baptist Sunday schools drove down and enjoyed several hours swimming and skating. That makes it hard on Grenada people to say that Winona is a better town than Grenada for they have to come all the way down here to find a place to really and truly entertain their young people in a manner that is most enjoyable."

Thinks Bilbo Should Return To Ministry

Prominent Grenada County Farmer Says Governor Should Return to "Calling" of Master and Leave Affairs of State to One Who Will Restore Harmony to State.

Editor Sentinel:

Mississippi is one of the greatest states in the union and has furnished citizens to almost every state in the nation. Our house of representatives in the Mississippi legislature, our senators, and our governor, are as good people I suppose as could be chosen from our state. But a house divided can never stand, so says the Good Book.

I believe that every man has a calling and when he follows that calling he will succeed. But whenever he undertakes to follow something for which he was not called, that undertaking will be a failure. If we have a man in our legislature who is not suited for that work or who is not fitted for that "calling", his efforts will fail. If our governor is not "called" to head the executive department of our state he can not successfully administer the affairs of state. Governor Bilbo is a licensed Baptist preacher, so I am told. He was "called" I reckon, he affirmed, at one time, to serve the Lord, we have a right to presume. The Lord never called Paul to be governor; he called him to preach the gospel and he preached it. Herod was called a rule the people of Israel. Paul never attempted to rule the people and Herod never undertook to preach. Each followed his own calling and each was successful in his chosen field—at least they thought they were. Now if our governor was "called" to preach, he should lay aside the affairs of government and go back to saving human souls and let some one by nature a statesman govern our people. Governor Bilbo, if called of God, would do better serving the Lord instead of serving the citizenship of Mississippi. I hope that the people will elect a man to succeed him who is a statesman and one who will serve the people and bind them together. There is some binding needed. We have been trying to get a road law through our legislative bodies. We have had one regular session and two extraordinary sessions of the legislature and yet we are still as far from having a highway system as we were when we first started. Our legislature is divided against itself and our executive head has not the power or the ability to heal the schisms. Our governor ought to be a good man and I could not afford to say he does not mean to do well, but he is not following his calling. He should step down and out of the governor's office and follow the "calling" the Master gave him. If he will do this it will give us the opportunity to elect a man to succeed him who will smooth out the differences among our lawmakers and who will enable our state to accomplish something and to blossom and bloom like the rose.

It is costing us—the taxpayers—a great deal of money to have these extra sessions of the legislature. Nothing has been accomplished by them except to fasten a whole lot of unnecessary expense on the state.

When a banker summons his directors together he always has in mind something to be done for the good of their institution. He lays the matter before the direcors, it is disposed of promptly and some good is accomplished. He has the interests of his body of people at heart. The bank cannot prosper unless those who aid him in its administration are united and stick together. Without this unity nothing can be accomplished. He should ask nothing that would in any way compromise the directors to do.

The best thing for our government—our state government—to do with the situation as it now

CIRCUIT COURT ENDS THREE DAYS' SESSION

Grand Jury Returns Only Six True Bills and Compliments County on Law Observance. One White Man and Two Negroes Sent to Penitentiary—Burglary Charges Continued.

The summer term of the circuit court of Grenada county convened Monday morning shortly after 8 o'clock, with Judge J. F. Allen on the bench. The hour of meeting every morning was 8 o'clock, with only one hour for dinner. Judge Allen believes in putting in full time and in turning off work just as rapidly as possible, however, he makes no ado about this and there is no pretense of "playing to the galleries".

District Attorney Dave Crawley, assisted by county prosecuting attorney, Sam C. Mims, Jr., was on the job to look after the interests of the state.

It was known in advance that the term would be short and that there was but a small amount of business. It appears that the good work heretofore done by officers and the vigilance of the present sheriff, Fred Nason, has practically rid the county of the big still operator. There seems to be grounds for believing that there is a good deal of whiskey peddled into the county, especially the western portion of the county, and the idea is current among the better informed that an "old timer" is on this job.

Sheriff Nason and his deputy, T. E. Tribble, were on a general reconnoiter last Saturday night, a thing that they very often do. They captured nothing yet a good work was done. It is a wholesome thing for the community who believes in law observance to know that arresting officers are nearby and wide awake.

The grand jury complimented the county for its law observance. The inquisitorial body returned only six true bills.

The following received penitentiary sentences by the court: Lewis Lee Green, for stealing auto from in front of residence of I. M. Stevens; Jack Baker, colored, 15 years for killing another negro in May on Green Street whose name was Sebe Galvester; Lewis Winter for burglarizing home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Grigory, 2 years and Dennis Berrell, negro, 3 years, for assault on Gene Christopher at Graysport about two years ago. The negro made a get-away after striking Mr. Christopher with a piece of iron but was captured some months ago in Louisiana.

There was expressed some surprise by those who are acquainted with the accused and who know some of the gravity of the charges that Olin, Kelly and Robt. Thomerson were not tried. These men were arrested some time ago just after the Dulweber store at Leflore was burglarized and it is stated that proof against perhaps all these men was most convincing of their guilt, yet their cases were continued until the next term of the court. They are white men, and the bond of each is only five hundred dollars. Possibly there are facts connected with the continuance of these men not known to the general public that made it wise to do so. But when courts convene only once in six months, it tends to lessen the interest of lawenforcing citizens when trials are postponed; delay is one of the chief allegations against the courts of the land at the present time. Courts are often importuned to dally with justice by men who should be standing squarely behind them and who should appreciate that delays and continuances are one of the things greatly coveted by those charged with crime.

The grand jury was as follows: L. A. Dubard, foreman, E. J. Costilow, Finley Rook, T. A. Horton, J. S. Purdy, C. V. Gibson, F. E. Gillon, J. H. Gray, Manley Duboise, J. F. Gibbs, T. P. Haile, C. C. Costilow, G. R. Mitchell, F. E. Edwards, R. H. McCormick, J. F. Thomason, C. M. Gibson, J. E. Bowen, R. N. Perry and H. W. Turner.

The following made up petit jury No. 1: J. W. Laster, L. Lamon, N. B. Jacks, W. A. Winter, V. C. Fonville, H. H. Heath, C. L. Trussell, C. O. Cohea, S. H. Kiser, C. O. Aven, E. Davis and J. E. Shaw.

Petit jury No. 2 was as follows: T. E. Hill, D. A. Williams, I. G. Rounsaville, E. L. James, E. C. Hayward, Edgar Trusty, R. L. Floyd, A. L. Rounsaville, Claude Aven, J. C. Whitten, D. R. Childers and B. C. Smith.

The B. Y. P. U. associational meeting of Grenada county will be held next Sunday with the Pleasant Grove Union. The meeting will last through the day and dinner will be served on the ground.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB HEARS GRENADA ATTORNEY SPEAK

At its meeting last Friday at noon the Young Men's Business Club heard a splendid address by Hon. Cowles Horton, member of the local bar.

Mr. Horton urged upon his hearers the importance of giving more attention to affairs of government, a matter that The Sentinel and every other good newspaper in the land have consistently preached in their columns for years. The speaker pointed out that the legislative bodies of the various states and of the nation could enact almost any law and place it upon the statute books with only a mild protest from the citizenship and he showed how, by taking an interest and making a study of government, the people themselves could have a greater voice in the administration of government. He pointed out the difference in the various states in laws governing the same things and said that these, he thought, should be similar in detail. He also mentioned the invasion of state's rights by Congress in making certain amendments to the constitution, the blame for which lay solely upon the people themselves.

After Mr. Horton's address, the reports of various committees were heard and the club adjourned to meet again on Friday, August 2.

Citizen Complains Fish Being Killed

Thinks Creosote from Tie Plant Deadly Poison to Fish—Is Friend of Plant but Thinks Chemical Can Be Kept Out of Streams and Can Have Fish and Plant.

Editor Sentinel:-

We have been worried a good many years with the creosote from the tie plant getting into the Yalobusha River and into the river lakes and killing all the fish. We have now succeeded in getting the Board of Supervisors to investigate the matter on the 27th of this month and all of us that are interested should meet with the board and give it our moral support towards correcting this matter.

For years the river bank through this section, after freshets, has been literally lined with dead fish. The scent of creosote can be detected anywhere along the river valley. This creosote not only kills the catfish and buffalo in the river, but kills the game fish and perch in the lakes. Those that are not killed are so impregnated with the taste of creosote that they are not edible. It looks as if the government or the county would take every step possible to prevent the escape of this deadly stuff into the rivers, especially when the government is going the limit in replenishing the streams with fish, and the county is spending lots of money in protecting the game and fish.

It is said that it is better to have the tie plant with its great pay-roll than to have the fish, but it is not necessary to relinquish either one. We can have both. The plant can prevent the stuff getting into the river. Of course it will cost money, but if any of us poor devils breaks the law we have to pay for it. So why should we insist on the little fellow obeying the law and at the same time permit the big fellow to escape the provisions of the law. It is clearly and indisputably illegal for any one to pollute running streams. No one questions that.

It is not our disposition to embarrass the tie plant in any way, but we do insist that it comply with the law in regard to the pollution of the streams. We can have the tie plant and we can have fish, too. If the tie plant has a right to turn loose this fish-killing stuff, then the tie plant can establish its right; just as an individual can establish his right to do or not to do a certain thing. There is no one disposed to make the tie plant do anything that it is not legally required to do.

It is to be hoped that all persons interested in the matter, irrespective of their views for or against, will be present at the meeting so that a just and equitable solution may be had. Those who have not investigated the matter of harm done should go down to the river and examine the banks of the river, and should exercise their smelling organs when in that vicinity. And if, after a fair examination, they do not find that the banks are full of creosote and if the creosote oil is not running down the river, then I will still believe that I am right and they are wrong.

The president of the board has called a special meeting for the 27th, inst. for the specific purpose of investigating the matter and of taking such action as it deems just and equitable. So all persons should be present to give their views.

Respectfully,
C. V. GIBSON.

LEWIS HAILE KILLE[illegible] IN CAR NEAR ELLIO[illegible]

Three Negroes Jailed at W[illegible]nona for Shooting—Claud[illegible] Morgan, Companion, Says Haile Shot without Warning—Whiskey, Jealousy and Mistaken Identity Thought Cause.

Lewis Haile was shot and killed on the public highway about two miles east of Elliott Wednesday about 8 o'clock p. m. presumably by three negroes who are now in jail at Winona. Haile had lived at Elliott for several years and was operating a filling station. He and his friend, Claude Morgan, left Elliott with the view of selling a portable phonograph to some negro near where he was killed. Morgan states that when they were near their destination, three negroes appeared in the road and began to shoot and that almost at the crack of the pistol, or pistols, Haile fell out of the car, dead. Morgan saw that his only safety was in a hasty retreat so he jumped from the car and made a get-away through the woods. He returned to Elliott and told the story of what had happened, when friends and neighbors of the dead man went for his remains. They state that the surrounding circumstances corroborated Morgan's story.

Haile leaves a wife and three children. He was looked upon by his neighbors as a kindly natured man and enjoyed the esteem of all who knew him.

The negroes arrested and charged with the crime reside on the Sayles farm just south of Elliott, and it is stated that it is thought that they were under the impression that Haile and Morgan were negroes who had come to interest themselves in a woman, or some women, who resided almost at where the killing occurred and to whom these negroes were more than kindly disposed.

"White mule", jealousy and mistaken identity are thought to be the prime causes of the tragedy. The negroes are being well guarded and it is not believed that there will be any attempt to visit summary wrath upon them.

CHEMIST'S ANALYSIS SHOWS NO CREOSOTE

Test Made by State Chemist in October, 1928, Showed No Creosote in Water Taken from Bogue—Ayer & Lord General Superintendent Presents Company's Side of Question.

At the request of Mr. Amos Smith, general superintendent of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co., and in view of the fact that the question of creosote in Bogue Creek and the Yalobusha River is more or less under discussion at this time and the matter is one of general interest to the community and this section, The Sentinel is publishing a letter from the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. addressed to the state chemist, Dr. W. F. Hand, at A. & M. College, Miss. together with Dr. Hand's report of his analysis of four cans of water taken from Bogue. The supervisors of Grenada County even now have under consideration the complaints of several citizens of the county that creosote from the Ayer & Lord plant, three miles south of Grenada, is entering the river from Bogue Creek and is killing a great many of the fish. The supervisors expect to visit the plant tomorrow (Saturday) with a number of the complainants and other citizens interested and go into the question thoroughly with officials of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co.

Mr. Smith does not deny that creosote from the company's plant gets into the river. He says that

ROBINSON SPRINGS WATER

Fine For Kidneys and Blader

The Sentinel is carrying an advertisement of Robinson Springs water which is sold by the Dyre-Kent Drug Co., and the Corner Drug Store in Grenada. This notice is not being written at the request of the druggists nor are they or any one else expected to pay for it. It is written because this paper thinks Robinson's Springs Water fine for many things but particularly for the kidneys and the bladder and for this reason this paper feels it a sort of duty to pass what this water is worth along to those who may be suffering from any kidney or bladder derangement. Robinson Springs are but a few miles from Jackson, Miss. J. Peyton Hall of Jackson is state sales manager. This water has wrought some exceptionally fine results in hundreds of cases and some of them right in or near Grenada.

The Illinois Central System now offers the services of these officers with a cordial invitation to make use of them.

Dairying Industry Marching Forward

Dream of Substantial Dairy Industry in Mississippi Fast Approaching Reality, Says W. C. Curle, Farm Development Association Agent. Grenada County Keeping Step with March of Progress.

Editor Sentinel:-

Mississippi dairy plants continue to increase in numbers and in volume of business, and the dream of a substantial dairy industry is fast approaching a reality. Creameries of the state manufactured nearly eight million pounds of butter during the past year. Cheese factories made rapid progress, increasing the amount of cheese manufactured from less than two hundred thousand to two and a half million pounds. Only about half of them operated the entire year the remainder being under construction so an even greater production may be expected during the present year. Around twenty-five million pounds of milk were utilized in the manufacture of cheese. Condensaries used a total of more than fifty-five million pounds of milk during the year in the manufacture of condensed and evaporated milk and only two of the four condensaries operated full time. Altogether the milk utilizing plants of the state purchased 106,601,242 pounds of whole milk. And they purchased 6,793,029 pounds of butter fat in cream showing a good increase over the previous year.

A distinctive feature attending the steady growth of the dairy industry in Mississippi is the striking increase in the number of cream buying stations established by the larger creameries. There are 148 cream buying stations now in operation or under construction in Mississippi as compared to 86 in operation and under construction one year ago. This is an increase of 62 stations or almost double the number one year ago. It exemplifies not only the resourcefulness of our milk, cheese, and creamery plants but also the day by day enlargement of what was known just a few years ago as the dairy belt. So that the present dairy area is fast approaching statewide proportions.

The fight for the dairy cow has been a hard one in this section and is still raging. But headway made so far is such as to make even the most pessimistic realize that the new system is here to stay. The results obtained by those farmers who have been leaders in entering the dairy game in Grenada county have been so unmistakable and impressive as to give courage and better than anything else ambition to small farmers who have done little else but exist in years gone by through the one crop system and credit prices.

The dairy movement has found a great backer in the Grenada County Farm Development Association, which seems to have summed up the situation in this district well and also gives an insight into the fact that publicity has played an important part in the new agricultural system of our county. The fact that quite a number of our farmers have signed up for cows for this fall delivery and in making their individual plans for entering or continuing the dairy business they have realized that good cows are essential and that low producing cows at low prices is false economy. Therefore they state a willingness to make a larger initial investment upon the theory that truly successful dairying cannot be done with poor quality cows, and without home grown

Representative Citizens Express Selves on Permanent Highways for Mississippi

Farmers and Others Almost Unit for Permanent Highway Law and Almost of Same Mind in Holding that Commissioners Should Be Elected—Former Supporters of Governor among List—Few Favor Short Term Bond Issue—Sentiment Thought to Be Fairly Representative of State.

In view of the diametrically opposite views held by Gov. Bilbo and the lower house of the Mississippi legislature as to the framing of a bill that will start a permanent road building program in Mississippi, and particularly as to whether the highway commissioners should be appointed by the Governor or elected by the people The Sentinel sought the views of something like twenty representative citizens from different sections of the county as to whether permanent road building should be started, whether bonds should be issued and as to how the commissioners should be named. In passing, it might be of interest to Sentinel readers to know that five of the men interviewed were supporters of Gov. Bilbo, and only one of these, and he resides in Grenada, favors the appointment of the commissioners by the Governor. The Sentinel feels sure that these men whose statements appear in this article represent the prepondering sentiment of Grenada county. It will be observed that only one of these men opposes through permanent roads, and that nearly all of them think a bond issue not wise. Here follows what these gentlemen stated:

RICE PRESSGROVE—Concrete roads seem to be the only practical highways. The question is "can we pay for them?" I don't believe the state should be burdened with an enormous debt to build roads but haven't studied the question enough to advance any theories as to how the roads can be paid for.

Most emphatically, the commissioners should be elected by the people. To make them appointive gives too much power to one man.

T. E. MOODY—I believe the state should have a permanent hard-surfaced highway system as we are wasting money on our graveled roads which are only substitutes. There is no economy in using substitutes for anything at any time. As far as possible, our highways should be paid for by those who use them in gasoline and other taxes and, if possible, they should be built without a bond issue.

The people should absolutely have the right to choose their highway commissioners.

N. B. JACKS—By all means we should have a permanent highway system as our graveled roads are costing more than they are worth to keep them up. The roads should be paid for by the people who use them in automobiles, trucks and heavy wagons. I'd favor a bond issue if it could be paid for out of gasoline and auto taxes.

I don't think the commissioners should be elected by the people because the average citizen is not competent to pass on their qualifications. Neither do I think the governor should appoint them for that would mean more politics and we have enough of that now. I think some plan should be worked out so that the civil engineers of the state could choose the commissioners.

JOHN T. KEETON—I heartily favor the building of permanent highways and would favor a small bond issue—say $5,000,000 to $10,000,000—to get started on. Then afterwards, continue to build on gas and auto tax funds.

Between the people electing and the governor appointing the commissioners I would favor electing them.

W. E. BOUSHE—I think we should have hard-surfaced highways by all means.

I haven't given the matter enough study to say how they should be paid for.

The commissioners should be elected by the people.

J. W. GRAY—No sir, I don't think the state should build hard-surfaced highways unless the lateral roads are built at the same time and of the same materials. We are taxed to death now and we fellows off the main highways would have our taxes increased without receiving a corresponding benefit. There's no use building good roads for the tourist unless the man back in the hollow—the home man—is taken care of, too.

As to electing or appointing the commissioners, if a highway bill should pass, it seems to me it would make little difference as either would mean a whole lot of politics.

W. B. HOFFA—Of course I favor permanent highways and have fought for good roads for years. Mississippi is losing $10,000,000 annually by not having hard-surfaced roads.

The only way, I think, they can be paid for is with a bond issue which should be properly safeguarded and the bonds issued as needed. We could have no schools, no paving, no railroads, no churches, or anything of a public nature whose benefits the public will in perpetuity enjoy, without bond issues.

The highway commissioner should be appointive.

COWLES HORTON—Mississippi, by all means, should have hard-surfaced roads and I would favor a bond issue of a limited amount to begin construction, provided the road law is properly framed.

Ordinarily I would say the commissioners should be appointed but in this particular instance, I'd say the people should have the right to elect them.

J. E. CARPENTER—I'm heartily in favor of hard-surfaced highways provided the people in the rural districts are given at least graveled roads to the main highways. I would not favor the roads at all unless this were done.

It seems to me that a bond issue would be necessary but the bonds should be issued only as needed. This would save a considerable

"Onlooker" Writes From State Capital

Gives Pros and Cons of Happenings—Deadlock between Governor and Lower House Still Abides—Governor Wants to Appoint Highway Commissioners and Lower House Wants Them Elected—Other Things.

Grenada Sentinel: So much has been written and said about the deadlock between Gov. Bilbo and the legislature on the question of a law for building concrete highways that it appears almost impossible to say anything that has not already been said.

It comes to my mind that some reputed wise man in the years ago said something like this, "He who will not compromise is an unsafe builder".

Mississippi has been talking good roads, better highways and permanent highways for twenty-five years. Possibly had there not been so much hot air expended in the past the folk at large would be more alert as to the present. It is hard to believe that the general public, if it could be called together at one place in the state and that if each could make an impromptu statement, would not say en masse to the Governor and the legislature, "Iron out your differences; you are inconsequential with us; the saving of money and permanent roads are what just now concerns us".

If some men in the State Capital knew how little the body of the folk care about what they think or do not think, and if these same ones knew, or if they already know and will put their knowledge into action, that they are just sorter organ-grinders in the passing show, why they would not act so august and would concern themselves more with the needs of the public and less about having "my ideas written into law". Any road law that is passed now is destined to be so changed and amended that it will be emasculated to the point where its authors will not know it in 10 years.

Gov. Bilbo has issued a dictum, in fact he has issued too many of them even some of his closest friends say, that unless a road law meets his ideas—and this idea is that he must be allowed to name the men who spend the money—he won't play ball. A majority of the senate has been sneezing when the Governor takes snuff, while a big majority of the lower house has done its own thinking, certainly it cannot be charged with going to Gov. Bilbo to tell it what to think or how to vote.

The majority adverse to Gov. Bilbo's policies is larger now than it was at the last extraordinary session or at the 1928 session in the house. It is openly stated that Gov. Bilbo's speech in which he spoke of Prof. Bond, state superintendent of education, as being his "jackass", has served to make some who had been voting with him, break away. In fact it is claimed that one of the ablest and most active members of the senate who was thought to represent the Governor's ideas on highway legislation at the 1928 session, has parted political company with the Governor, and that when rather chided in the senate some days ago as to why he was not backing the administration now, he replied in effect as follows: "Since the Governor has seen fit to characterize one of his friends of many years' duration as his jackass because this friend did not take orders from him on the book question, I fear that he will be denominating some of us as jackasses".

The Governor is chipper and How's this for a hot-weather dinner?

ONE of these evenings, when you're exhausted from the heat, how would you like to sit down to a dinner like this? An ice-cold fruit cup, jellied chicken and ham, a salad of crisp lettuce with a stuffed tomato in aspic. And, for dessert, a strawberry sundae. Tempting, isn't it?

All the real work can be done in the morning. Then your General Electric Refrigerator will do the rest.

Column About Colored People of Grenada County

Items by J. H. Phillips

We have been intensely interested in legislation by the national government in the Federal loan project to aid the farmer in his adverse problems. As a group, more of our people here in the south are a farming class and that fact should cause us to look with approval and apprehension of how we are to be recipients of any of this aid. One of the greatest hindrances to all of our advancements in anything that means success has been our neglect to organize and will always be a hindrance until we as a group are able to understand what it means to act as a unit in anything we desire to do. We talk cooperation, combination and association, but are satisfied to see others actually engage in the work and we simply stand by and act as a feeder for them and get none of the revenue that it affords. Now, we do not know how we are to get any of this federal aid but we think we had better get ready to organize ourselves in some way so that when it begins to function we will be ready to drop in any groove that may be outlined. We should take pattern from our white friends who have always had an eye to uniting in anything they desired to make a success. We hope our folk will begin to sit up and take notice of the many avenues opening up to assist them in bettering their economical condiions.

Mrs. Willie M. Allen, of Helena, Ark., after one month's stay with her aunt, Mrs. Ada Bridgers, returned to her home this week. She had been away from Grenada twenty years and was surprised at the changes made in our city during her long absence.

Rev. W. B. Rogers, of Houston, Miss., brother of our Prof. A. M. Rogers, passed through our city last week and stopped over to see his brother and to get an impression of our city.

Dr. W. G. O'Neal, of this city, lectured to the summer school students on the subject of Pellagra last Tuesday at the high school auditorium. It was instructive and well received by those who heard it.

The "Community Needy Circle" had a very interesting topic for discussion on "Self" last Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Eliza McFarland.

The summer school which opened here on the 15th of this month is progressing finely. The enrollment now is about 100. It is being credited with being the best summer school we have ever had here. On Friday night of this week, Grenada county teachers will entertain the public with a program. Everybody is invited. No admission fee.

On Sunday at 3 p. m. a religious service will be held at the high school auditorium at which time a sermon will be preached, followed by a vesper service. The public is cordially invited.

On last Saturday our friend, Jim Mullen, one of our old citizens, died after several weeks' illness and was buried Sunday, Rev. W. M. Weathers officiating. The Fox Funeral Home had charge of the burial.

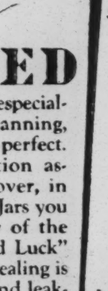
WHEN CHILDREN Need a Laxative



"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught in our family for nineteen years. I have found it of great help in raising my family.

"I have given it to all six of my children. Whenever they complain of upset stomach, or begin to look pale and sickly, I make a tea of Black-Draught and begin giving it to them. In a day or two they are all right.

"I give it to them for constipation, and my husband and I both take it. I always give it for colds in winter, for I believe a way to prevent them is to keep the system clean."—Mrs. Doshie Terry, 1205 4th Ave., Decatur, Ala.

25 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

Mr. William Patton Wilkins and Miss Eloise Lamkin, daughter of Mr. T. P. Lamkin, of Woodland plantation, ten miles south of Grenada, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the Episcopal church on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. W. Holmes performing the ceremony. The bride wore white crepe dechine and was attended by her sister, Miss Helene Lamkin. The groom was attired in conventional black, and was attended by Mr. James E. Porter, of Oxford. Messrs. Frank H. Jones and Moore Moore, of Grenada, and T. H. Hutchinson and S. W. Wardlaw, of Oxford, acted as ushers.

One of the most intensely exciting games of baseball ever pulled off within the corporate boundaries of this municipality was that of Tuesday afternoon, when the professional men and merchants of the city crossed willows and manipulated the festive sphere on the league greensward for the championship of Beat No. 1. The exhibition from start to finish, was chock full of vim. and the frequent brilliant maneuvres called forth bursts of unstinted applause from the enthusiastic and appreciative spectators whose anticipations that an exceptionally good game would result from the signing of articles were being fully realized. The score at the conclusion of the ninth inning read as follows: Professionals 26; Merchants 25. The line ups were as follows: Professional men—W. M. Mitchell, pitcher, captain, E. M. Ransom, catcher; Archie Roane, first base; Dr. W. H. Whitaker, second base; S. A. Morrison, third base; C. B. Bolton, shortstop; Dr. B. S. Dudley, right field; W. C. McLean, left field; Cowles Horton, center field. Subs. Dr. J. P. Broadstreet, W. S. P. Doty, B. C. Adams, A. Gerard, A. S. Bell, Fox Simpson, J. S. King. Merchants—F. R. Lickfold, pitcher, captain; J. C. Wilson, catcher; Lew A. Cates, first base; H. J. Ray, second base; E. L. Gerard, third base; R. C. Trusty, shortstop; W. A. Lacook, left field; H. G. Leonard, right field; Jesse West, centerfield. Subs.—D. O. Semmes, O. C. Leigh, Max Ginsburger, E. J. Weyneth, R. Pressgrove, Ernest Hall, H. J. Murff, Chas. Farmer.

Mrs. Robert Horton and Misses Belle Ayers and Mary Carothers are spending a few weeks at Monteagle, having left on Tuesday for that place.

Mr. Casey Todd, traveling auditor for the Cumberland Telephone Company, with headquarters at Nashville, was in Grenada a few days this week on business and found everything in fine shape.

Mr. W. E. Rollins, now in business in Birmingham, spent a few days here this week with relatives. He is an old Grenada boy and has many friends both in the town and country.

Joel D. Rice and his three sons, Thurman, Autrey and Farmer, and Miss Sadie, Harvey Harris, Green Sales and the Messrs. Peterson left Saturday for the World's fair.

Mr. L. C. Dubard returned Wednesday from St. Louis, after spending a week with relatives.

Mr. C. M. Jones, wife and daughter, Mr. D. C. Young, wife and sister of Granger, Texas, spent a few days in Grenada this week, the guests of Mr. W. M. Dubard and family.

ONLY FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Resolutions were resoluted the other day at Gulfport by one of the many conventions that are constantly meeting all over the land that the agricultural service bureau of Mississippi should be given five hundred thousand dollars by the legislature to be scattered abroad "for the farmers of the state". Nice thing, wouldn't it be for those who are to do the spending, but we are unable to see where the welfare of the public, and particularly that of the farmer, is to come in (?).

Of course the resolutions were too skilfully drawn just to say outright that the money asked was "to be scattered abroad", but that's what would be done with it. The agricultural bureau is operated by a polished educator and a likely man and while the bureau is yet in its swaddling clothes, those who are riding have always shown marked evidence of their ability to spend money to scatter what is often said in rather indelicate parlance, "bull". Fortunate it is that this old animal has the strength, endurance and scatterbility that he has—he is being used a thousand times more today than ever before.

IF THE SENATE RENEGES.

If the state senate reneges on the compromise permanent highway bill, it will serve to make many believe that it does not stay of the same mind long at the time. The proposition to name a special committee from both houses of the legislature to draft a compromise road bill came from the senate. The house accepted at once and now some are saying that the lower house put it all over the senators who have heretofore registered their votes contrary to the views of the house. Lt. Governor Bidwell Adam is credited with being the one to propose a joint committee to the senate and as having expressed himself as being tired of jockeying and of realizing that those who stood in the way of a get-together proposition might expect the wrath of the public to be visited upon their political heads. Those who know the Lieutenant-Governor best say that he is not one of those who backs down.

THAT JACKSON COURT HOUSE LOCATION.

The Sentinel has no disposition to step in on the verbal row between the Daily News and the Clarion-Ledger as to the location of the new court house in Jackson, but it does seem to us that it would be building a stately edifice on the edge of town and at a place that by nature is destined to remain the edge because of Pearl river, to erect the building south of Pearl Street. Our guess is that 90 per cent of the business district is north of Pearl Street and that 95 per cent of the population is north and west of that point. To go south of Pearl Street would be violating a Biblical injunction not to hide your light under a bushel, or, as regards this court house, in a secluded section.

There are very few things, individuals, governments or organizations but what are having some weight to carry that is bearing heavily either upon their patience or coveted purposes. The Methodist Church, South, has Bishop Cannon on its hands; President Hoover has congress on his hands; Bilbo has the legislature on his back; Italy is carrying Mussolini; the farmers have many humps on their backs; France has the settlement of its war debt to Uncle Sam; Louisiana is afflicted with Gov. Huey Long; our Republican friends in congress have the negro, DePriest, on their hands; the whole Nation is afflicted with Wall Street speculators; Mississippi is confronted with how to get started on a permanent road building program and about 85 per cent of the country is puzzled to know how it can pay off mortgages while the remainder, including 65% of the others, are puzzled about what "new model" they shall buy.

So many men thought to be more than worth while citizens are spending useless energy in doing things that are worth nothing to the public, and yet the daily press carries stories about these men and their stunts every day. As an instance of what we have in mind, we cite Dr. LeRoy's attempt to make the trip from New Orleans to St. Louis in a gasoline boat in less time than some other man did some years ago. What has been accomplished if he does?

By the way, let us not forget the reason "they say" they assigned for pleading with the high railroad officials in a secret caucus to turn over something more than a half million dollars in the way of income taxes which the railroads evidently thought they did not owe.

"O, Music, you have the power to lift the veil and let the spirit look and listen; you mark the dividing line between beasts and men; you compel mankind to put away selfishness, greed and hate. You have discovered the pathway to the soul".

The commissioners should be elected by the people.

G. P. CUNNINGHAM— Mississippi should have hard-surfaced highways for the benefit of the state as a whole and those of us who live off the main highways can be satisfied with graveled roads or we can wait a while longer for good highways. I don't think just because maybe a few in the country sections won't be benefitted that permanent road building should be delayed.

I believe the roads could and should be built without the issuance of bonds.

The people should elect the highway commissioners.

H. L. HONEYCUTT—Mississippi's main highways should be hard-surfaced and the longer we delay building them, the more it is costing us to use our present roads.

I have given a great deal of thought to the subject and don't see how they can be built without bond issues, the bonds to be issued as needed.

I think the highway commission should be composed of three members—a lawyer, a banker or financier and a civil engineer. They should be chosen. I think by the legislature after the governor has submitted the names of six men, two from north Mississippi, two from central Mississippi and two from south Mississippi. A combination of banker, lawyer and engineer would provide a commission possessing the experience such a body should have.

R. H. STOKES—I don't think the building of hard-surfaced roads will add enough to the value of Mississippi property to justify the expense of constructing them and going further into debt and adding more taxes by issuing bonds. I don't believe a permanent road system can be built out of auto and gas tax funds and I believe if the roads are built it will increase taxes on our real property which is bearing enough tax burden now.

If a highway bill should be enacted, provision should be made somehow for the roads to be paid for by the present generation and not saddle any further debt on generations yet unborn. If bonds are issued they should be issued as needed and not all in one lump.

I think the idea in one highway bill before the legislature for the governor to appoint one commissioner, the lieutenant-governor, one and the speaker of the house, one, is the best that has been advanced. The commissioners should be checked up every six months at least by an expert auditor.

T. E. BOWEN—Mississippi needs a system of hard-surfaced roads for many reasons. A fine road system would mean a great deal to the state in the saving of expense in automobile upkeep, it would reap untold benefit from the favorable advertising outside its borders and we would keep step with the progress our sister states are making.

The roads should be built without a bond issue, if possible, for we are already overburdened with debt now. Those who use the roads should pay for their construction.

The people should have the right to elect the highway commissioners.

J. E. SHAW—Yes sir, Mississippi should have a system of hard-surfaced roads for that is the only sensible kind of road system to have.

The present road beds should be used and the legislature, before passing the bill, should designate the type of road, prepare specifications and outline the means by which the money should be raised to pay the cost of construction.

Not a dollar's worth of bonds should be issued to build the highways but every wheeled vehicle that uses the roads should bear its part of the cost—in gasoline and privilege taxes.

The people should elect the highway commissioners. It's all stuff and nonsense about the people being unable to intelligently choose the commissioners. The average citizen is well posted and is able to pass on the qualifications of those offering for election.

I doubt that we'll get a road bill during the present administration while the governor and the house and the house and senate are at loggerheads. While all the blame for these differences of opinion can not be placed upon the governor, the many pet hobbies he had had a great deal to do with building up and strengthening the opposition to him.

With the governor, the senate and the house divided as they are, nothing can be accomplished. Unless they can agree, the legislature should adjourn without delay, and road measures should never be brought up again until we have a legislature and a governor in harmony.

JACK RHODES—I am in favor of a law for building concrete roads, to be paid for out of gasoline taxes and other taxes on motor vehicles. Might, if necessary, agree to a limited bond issue to start work, bonds to be taken care of by taxing those who ride or drive motor vehicles.

Think highway commissioners should be chosen by the people.

CLAUD HALL—Mississippi's main highways should be hard-surfaced.

Certificates of indebtedness or short term bonds should be issued to a limited amount to get the work started. These certificates should be retired and road construction continued with money received from gas and auto privilege taxes.

Right now, I'd say the commissioners should be elected by the people.

A. T. McELWRATH—Yes, we should have a permanent highway system.

The roads should be built on the "pay-as-you-go" plan with funds from the auto and gas taxes. It might be necessary to issue a limited amount of bonds at the start but the work should be continued as funds are on hand.

The highway commissioners should be three in number elected by the people. One should come from north Mississippi, one from south Mississippi, and one from central Mississippi.

R. C. TRUSTY—I do think Mississippi should have a hard-surfaced highway system for its trunk lines, say about three north and south and about four east and west.

The money should come from the gasoline and auto privilege taxes and from no other source. No bonds should be issued at all.

The commissioners should be chosen by the house of representatives or by the two houses in joint session.

R. W. JONES—Mississippi should have a permanent highway system to be built as soon as possible.

The roads should be built with funds raised through gasoline and auto privilege taxes and they should be built just as there is money in the treasury to pay for them. I wouldn't be opposed to a limited bond issue to start with provided the bonds are retired solely from auto and gas taxes but no additional advalorem tax should be levied for road building.

The highway commissioners, at first, should be elected by the people but when the law begins to work effectively they should be appointed.

D. A. WILLIAMS—We ought to have permanent highways in our state and the sooner they are built the better off the state will be.

I haven't given enough study to the matter of financing road construction to answer this question. If the roads can be built on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, that would be the best way. If they cannot, then we should issue bonds to be paid for from the tax on automobiles and gasoline.

The commissioners ought to be elected by the people for if the power of appointing them were given to the governor it would place too much power in one man's hand.

C. B. HUGGINS—Mississippi should most certainly have hard-surfaced highways.

They should be paid for on the pay-as-you-go plan but to get work started a limited bond issue might be necessary. Road building should be financed by taxes on automobiles and gasoline.

The people should elect the commissioners.

W. W. WHITAKER—We should have a permanent road system, under the proper restrictions.

The roads should be financed partially by bonds and partially by the state's part of the gasoline tax.

The commissioners ought to be elected by the people. The number of commissioners should not be over three and they should be paid salaries commensurate with their duties.

PLANT OFFICIAL DISCUSSES CREOSOTE KILLING FISH

A. M. Smith, general superintendent of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co., by request, was granted a few minutes' time at Tuesday's meeting of the Grenada Rotary Club to present his company's side of the question being so generally agitated just at this time and that is the allegations that creosote entering Yalobusha River from the tie plant below Grenada is killing fish. Mr. Smith discussed the matter for some minutes and made a most effective presentation from his viewpoint. He said that creosote is not poisonous and that even if fish did consume it, they would not die from its effects. He stated it as his belief that if fish were being killed, something else was causing their death for, he said, the taste of creoote is so vile that the fish wouldn't touch it. He said that his company had spent much money in trying to keep the creosote from the river but that it was almost a physical impossibility to do so. He stated that oils and greases from garages and service stations found their way into the river and that these might be what some thought was creosote. He said that the quantity from Tie Plant entering the stream was so infinitesmally small as compared with the volume of water, the damage being done is almost negligible. He closed by asking his hearers to investigate the situation before passing judgment and, if they found what he said was true, to aid his company in educating the public as to the erroneousness of the view that fish are being killed by creosote.

Rotarian Vassar Dubard followed Mr. Smith and he said that an investigation was unnecessary, that he knew positively that creosote was polluting the waters and that fish were being killed by it. He said that when the river at times has been out of its banks he has seen fish so drunk from the chemical that they floated out over the fields to die there. He said also that after high water his plows had turned up layer after layer of creosote.

Rotarian W. B. Hoffa followed Mr. Dubard and he pointed out the great benefit to this section in an economic way from the fact that the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. is located here. He said that the company had spent ten million dollars here in labor and materials and he asked the club to consider this fact, saying that it would be best to lose the fish instead of the tie plant.

President B. J. Anderson assured Mr. Smith that the club members would go into the matter thoroughly before they attempted to pass judgment and he assured him also of the kindly feeling generally felt toward the company.

Roland W. Jones, chairman of the community service committee, went into the question of various committees visiting different parts of the county and he urged those committees which had not yet functioned to do so at the first opportunity. He pointed out the advantage to Grenada and this section to be derived from these visits.

E. G. Honeycutt, of Waco, Tex., and W. C. Curle, of Holcomb, were guests at the luncheon.

Run-Down

"About seven years ago, I was all run-down, worn-out and never felt good," says Mrs. Harry Cantrell, of Cape Girardeau, Mo. "A chair would be more welcome any time than my work.

"I was so tired when I would arise in the morning. Instead of being rested, I felt terrible.

"At last, mother told me to take Cardui, and I did. After the first bottle, I could tell a difference, and when I had taken five bottles the tired feeling was all gone. I felt like a different person, thanks to Cardui. I hope that other mothers will try Cardui. I have been wonderfully benefited by it."

Wright-Williams.

A wedding which comes as a surprise to their wide circle of friends in Tennessee and Mississippi took place in Ripley, Tenn. last Thursday, when Miss Frankie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Williams, became the bride of Mr. Robert H. Wright, of Grenada.

The home of the bride's parents, where the wedding was solemnized, was beautifully decorated throughout with vases and tall wicker baskets of gladioli.

Miss Gene Williams, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon dress and a large picture hat. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Judge Donald Wright, of Greenwood, and Mr. William Wright, of Grenada, brothers of the groom, served as groomsmen.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was becomingly gowned in cream chiffon, with hat and all accessories harmonizing. Her flowers were pink roses and orchids in an arm bouquet. The ceremony was said by the Rev. Yates Moore.

Following the wedding a reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Wright by Mr. and Mrs. William Tucker, Jr., after which the happy couple left by motor for their honeymoon, keeping their destination a secret. Later they will be at home to their friends in West Point, Miss.

The bride has for the past two years been a member of the teaching force in the Grenada grammar school. While here she endeared herself to all those with whom she came in contact by her unassuming manner, her charming personality and her lovely disposition. Mr. Wright is the oldest son of Mrs. J. G. Wright, of Grenada, and is a young man of splendid character and sterling worth. The Sentinel wishes for them a long life of happiness.

There were many out of town guests at the wedding, those from Grenada being: Mrs. J. G. Wright, Mrs. J. E. Huffington, Sr., Mrs. J. E. Huffington, Jr. and Mr. William Wright.

"Adhering strictly to the soundest principles of design, Chrysler engineers have, nevertheless, developed and applied these principles in a manner just as revolutionary as the application of steam to ocean-going ships. + + We believe that the creation of the Chrysler accomplished an all-important evolution in motor cars no less valuable than the original invention of the automobile."

WHY CHRYSLER CAN'T BE COPIED

For five years the motor car industry has striven unceasingly to emulate and overtake Chrysler—yet all its best efforts and most persistent ambitions to that end have fallen far short of their goal.

As time rolls on, it becomes more and more manifest that Chrysler performance can't be copied—that only Chrysler engineering and Chrysler manufacturing methods can produce Chrysler results.

Chrysler results are uncopiable because Chrysler engineering is of an entirely new school of thought, because Chrysler ingenuity is free from the hindering and hampering influence of out-dated and hide-bound traditions.

Chrysler results are uncopiable, too, because Chrysler has the great manufacturing advantage of plant equipment as new and up-to-date as the Chrysler car itself.

So Chrysler goes marching on, strengthening its leadership, maintaining a wide margin of superiority in performance—demonstrating a virile fleetness, an eager spirit, an unwavering stamina and an unruffled smoothness other cars find impossible to equal or even approximate.

all roads are better roads with De Soto Six

When the Chrysler-built De Soto Six was designed, special emphasis was placed on its easy riding.

Balanced spring suspension, a minimum of unsprung weight, low-hung body, rubber engine mountings and Chrysler-selected hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, make the De Soto Six the steadiest riding medium-weight motor car on the road today. De Soto Six takes the turns safely at high speeds; does not tend to swing when suddenly slowed down; rides remarkably easily over the roughest surfaces; and at all times gives the impression of being a far larger, heavier and more expensive car.

We invite you to make your own comparison. Pick the worst road and step on the gas. For easy-riding qualities alone, apart from other features of remarkable performance, you will find the De Soto Six considerably superior to any other make of car below $1,000.

MENTIONS GRENADA VISIT

Editor Mississippi Sun:

Wednesday afternoon we, my "better half," our son, L. L. and grandson, Riley, left Enid, for this college, the latter was the chauffeur, an expert, we arrived safely, though at times, we came rather rapidly.

Of course, we passed through Grenada, the city, "beautiful" and it had improved so much, I scarcely knew where I was "at" I saw "Salmon" in a store, went in, W. D. was absent, I thought of Squire Salmon, of Rosebloom, my staunch friend in the long ago, however, I met the handsome young, genial and generous, Thomas Salmon, a recent graduate from the college here. I went to see "Jim" Hon. Banker Thomas, "Sip" Tatum, "Ottie" Lawrence. I will just go back there and remain till I see everybody, for I love Grenadians. We came through Calhoun City, the home of the "Man from Calhoun" former Governor Dennis Murphree, to our delight.

As we passed by Walthall, named for the prince among men, the soldier, patriot and statesman, Gen. Edwin C. Walthall, the ideal in this life and the home of the late Sam Cook, a Confederate veteran, a writer of note, an interesting writer of the Civil War, having sufficiently to make his writings interesting and thrilling Hon. Mr. Grady.

Having been reared on the farm everything, pertaining thereto, attracts my eyes, so I am bound to state that both cotton and corn were looking well and clear of grass and weeds. We noticed hay fields occasionally. From the milk cows all along, which were grazing in luxurious grasses, we judge the dairy business is excellent. Also trucks were carrying logs and lumber to market. The roads were good and altogether it seemed to the writer that this country is prosperous.

Great improvements have been made at this famous college since my last visit, 4 years ago. Commodious brick buildings are being erected and will be ready for occupancy by next session. The administration of Governor Bilbo is to be commended for the timely improvements was appropriated.

Those who selected this spot for the college acted wisely for it is an ideal location for such. There are over 2,000 acres belonging to the college grounds, on this is raised cotton experimentally only, corn, oats, peas, hay, etc. for the use of the animals belonging here. A large acreage is reserved for shade trees, which are stately, under which is grown luxuriant grasses, and it is beautiful sight to see the different animals grazing thereon.

This is the home for the Jersey symmetrical and beauty of color. They bring from $100 to $200, some produce 6 gallons of milk daily. The campus contains about 20 acres, and it is quite attractive, lovely shade trees and plentiful and suitably arranged, the ground is rolling, and grasses abound which are mowed by a machine drawn by a tractor (illegible). Such is used in "Marsh Beat" an excellent improvement has been made, the streets for the campus has been paved with concrete, 18 feet wide and 8 inches deep, which makes a substantial road. I understand D. W. Robins the Highway Commissioner took an active part to have this much needed work accomplished.

The orchards, of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, etc., are so tempting, with their delicious fruit, one is reminded of that famous garden long ago.

But the horticultural department attracts one more except the beautiful ladies, then anything here. The evergreens, scrugs, flowers, etc., are abundant, and transcendantly beautiful. This is a wonderful college, about 1500 students here this session and over 200 graduates. The graduates from this school are earning from $3,000 to $10,000 annually. They are not only making good in the United States, but beyond Uncle Sam's domain, The creamery is great. They buy cream only, and what butter is not used, is shipped in car lots to the eastern markets. A large amount of money is paid to the farmers weekly.

Dr. B. N. Walker is president and has been connected with the college half a century. He is a capable official.

THE STORY OF DANIEL

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:1-4, 19, 20; 2:17-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Preparing for a Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Character and Career of Daniel.

I. Daniel in Captivity (1:1-4).

His captivity took place in the third year of Jehoiakim's reign by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon. While a tender youth, he was torn from home ties and made a captive in a foreign land to be trained for service in the royal court.

II. Daniel in Training (1:5-20).

In order to be of the largest service in the kingdom, it was necessary that he be taught to love the king and nation and to be detached from his own people and religion.

1. Daily portion of the king's meat and drink appointed (v. 5).

The object of this was:

(1) To gain the good will of Daniel. Such recognition would encourage him to give himself to the king's service.

(2) To supply the proper food for his physical and intellectual growth.

2. His name changed (v. 7).

He was named Belteshazzar. The object in this change was the obliteration of national and religious connections, and his identification with the Babylonion nation. Daniel means, God is my judge. Belteshazzar means, Bel's Prince.

3. Daniel's purpose of heart (v. 8).

Though a captive in a foreign land, Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat and wine. He requested to be tested for ten days with the food which the law of his God allowed agreeing to abide by the results.

4. Daniel's reward (vv. 15-20).

(1) Physical health (v. 15). The king's meat and wine would have been very palatable, but to have partaken would have meant the violation of his conscience.

(2) Mental growth (vv. 17-20). He was found to be ten times wiser than the magicians and astrologers.

(3) Socially (v. 19). He was not only next to the king, but became president of the college of wise men and the prime minister of the empire, continuing through several dynasties (v. 21).

(4) Spiritual (v. 17).

God revealed to him Nebuchadnezzar's dream and gave visions stretching across the centuries. The secret of Daniel's success was:

a. Conscientiousness.
b. Loyalty to God.
c. Decision of character.
d. Prayerfulness.
e. Patience.
f. Courtesy.

III. Daniel Interpreting Nebuchadnezzar's Dream (2:14-46).

1. The dream revealed (vv. 14-35).

Nebuchadnezzar had a dream which made a tremendous impression on his mind, but its content had been forgotten. He urgently demanded of the wise men that they make known the dream and its interpretation. Because of their failure to do so the king was furious and commanded all the wise men of Babylon to be slain. Daniel sought an interview with the king and obtained time. In answer to prayer, God gave to Daniel the content of the dream. He told the king that in his dream he had beheld a great image with a head of gold, breast and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet part of iron and part of clay. He beheld this image smitten by a stone and the stone became a great mountain.

2. The dream interpreted (vv. 36-46).

(1) The head of gold represented the Chaldean monarchy, with Nebuchadnezzar as its head (vv. 37, 38).

(2) The breast and arms of silver represented the Medo-Persian power (v. 39).

(3) The belly and thighs of brass represented the Grecian empire under Alexander the Great (v. 39).

(4) The legs of iron represented the Roman empire (vv. 40-43).

(5) The stone cut out of the mountain (vv. 44, 45). This is the Kingdom of Heaven so graphically set forth in the New Testament.

a. The stone is Christ (Isa. 28:16; Matt. 21:42-44).

b. When did the stone strike? Observe that the impact upon this man was upon his feet (v. 34).

c. The Kingdom of Heaven is brought into realization through a great catastrophe.

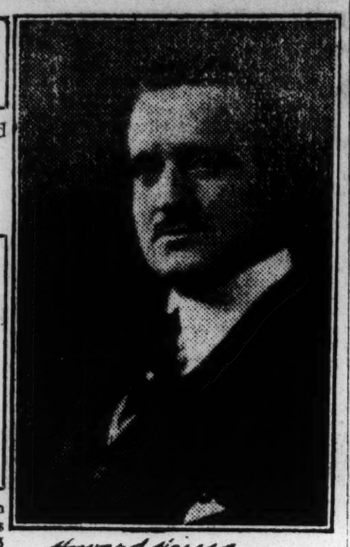
The Human Side of Big Business

Howard Heinz, president of H. J. Heinz Co., noted food producers, thinks that the growth of business is dependent upon training of men.

By EDGAR MELS.

Howard Heinz, head of the great H. J. Heinz Company, was born in Pittsburgh 51 years ago. He was graduated from Yale in 1900. Though his principal business is the preparation of foods, he devotes much time to the furtherance of education. His favorite hobby is the operation of the Sarah Heinz House, a training school where approximately 1,000 boys and girls are being trained.

Mr. Heinz is a director, among other great institutions, of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Mellon National Bank, a trustee of Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and a director of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. In addition, he is director in many charitable and philanthropic institutions.



Howard Heinz

"THE word 'impossible' may yet be eliminated from the English dictionary, and, 'it has never been done' may also go into the discard. Everything seems possible, if we just know how to do it, and we are learning how," said Howard Heinz, president of the H. J. Heinz Company, noted the globe over as the largest producers of food products of the kind in the world. "The veil that separates the possible from the impossible is passing with the development of scientific and inventive minds and through the training of men. It is by such training that progress is made, not only by the individual and the organization with which he is connected, but by the world at large."

Sixty years ago Mr. Heinz's father established the business which bears his name. It had its beginning at Sharpsburg, a small town near Pittsburgh, with two or three employes preparing horse-radish for the table. The pungent root, grown in a small garden, was prepared in two rooms. To-day it takes the crops of 150,000 acres to supply the Heinz kitchens with raw materials. More than 11,000 persons, including approximately 1,400 travelling salesmen, are regularly employed. A main plant at Pittsburgh, 25 branch factories in four countries, and over 300 salting houses and raw products receiving stations are utilized in the preparation of condiments and foods, which are distributed through 88 sales branches in three countries and 175 agencies in foreign countries.

The business was founded on clearly defined principles, one of which is that the growth of an organization is dependent upon the training of men. When the founder died he left as a legacy to his son, a desire to train men. From early manhood, the son has devoted time and energy to this ambition.

Mr. Heinz had not left Yale, from which he was graduated in 1900, when he formed specific plans along these lines. He first founded the Covode House, for settlement work in Pittsburgh, and then added to the facilities for this work, the Sarah Heinz House, where 1000 boys and girls are in training. Both houses are dedicated to "youth, recreation, character and service."

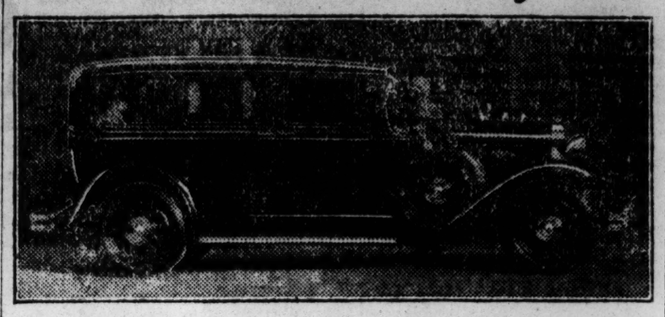
With equal enthusiasm, he devotes time to institutions of higher learning. He is on the boards of the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the Shady Side Academy, a preparatory school, and is a member of the Fine Arts committee of the Carnegie Museum. He established a fund at Yale from which students may borrow money to complete their courses.

"There is a crying need for more trained men," Mr. Heinz says, "and they are the ones who are eliminating the word 'impossible' from our vocabularies. Lindbergh is an example of preparedness and training. He schooled himself in flying, with all its difficult technicalities and problems, before he started across the Atlantic, and with that knowledge took another 'impossible' from our thoughts. It is the same in every line of endeavor. Many men apparently spring into prominence over night. People utter exclamations about luck, but often do not stop to think of the training and work back of the achievement."

Mr. Heinz declares that heart-power is greater than horse-power. In the management and development of men, the leader must reach the heart as well as the mind. He has found that the unhappy worker is never interested in his job and cannot succeed. Therefore, his first thought is to make a man happy.

Mr. Heinz encourages social and educational activities at all his plants, and through gifts of life insurance to every worker and support of a beneficial association prepares employes for the "rainy" day, while faithful service is rewarded by allotments of the company's stock and gold medals and watches.

1930 Buick Has New Body Lines



The 1930 Buick makes its debut this week on the showroom floors of approximately 4,000 dealers throughout the country and, according to factory officials at Flint, Michigan, this new creation will prove one of the outstanding sensations of the year in both performance and appearance.

The Buick line, as in former years, is divided into three series. The wheelbase and the horsepower of all models of the three series have been increased. The wheelbase of the six models of the 40 series has been increased from 116 to 118 inches and the engine has been stepped up to 80½ horsepower.

Wheelbase on the two models in the series 50 line is increased from 121 inches to 124 inches and on the six models of 60 series from 129 inches to 132 inches. Models in the 50 and 60 series have an engine which will develop 99 horsepower. All models in all series have an actual speed well up in the seventies.

In addition to lengthening the wheelbase, the car has been built lower. Body lines and contours have been refined, the shape of the radiator revised, the margin of the radiator shell diminished and thermostatically operated shutters added to the front. The result is a car of unusual beauty, fleet lines and obvious comfort. The body bears the stamp of Fisher craftsmanship.

Many mechanical advances have been embodied in the 1930 Buick. A steering wheel road-shock eliminating device is one of them and this feature, coupled with a fully adjustable worm and roller type steering assembly, makes the new car singularly easy to steer and handle at high speeds on the open road and in slow moving heavy traffic.

Semi-elliptic springs and double acting shock absorbers are used, together with four wheel internal expansion controlled Servo brakes, redesigned transmission and clutch, improved rubber motor mountings and a wider and sturdier chassis frame. A sloping non-glare windshield is another advancement incorporated in the new Buick.

Performance tests, conducted over a period of several months at the General Motors Proving Ground, have demonstrated that its speed, hill climbing ability and riding comfort set a new all-around precedent in the field of automobile travel.

Scouts Use Dodge Car For 12,000 Mile Trip

These three boy scouts were picked from 600 to tour the western national park system this summer. The boys started from Oakland, Calif., and will visit parks in eleven western states. At the wheel of the veteran Dodge car which has covered more than 75,000 miles, is Ansel Hall, chief naturalist for the western division of national parks. A New Dodge Brothers Six roadster is starting the boys on their way.

to keep it from draining into Bogue Creek would be almost an impossibility but he states it as his belief that the quantity of the chemical that drains into Bogue and thence into the river as compared to the volume of water is insignificant and not sufficient to prove injurious to the fish. He points out that the tie plant has been located here for 25 years and that if creosote had gotten into water in quantities large enough to kill fish there would be no fish in the river today, saying that all would have been exterminated in the course of a quarter of a century. Mr. Smith says, too, that what one frequently thinks is creosote in the river could be oils and greases entering the water from the city sewers. He calls attention to the great quantities of waste oils and greases accumulating about the garages and service stations and when it enters the sewers it is bound to go into the river. Mr. Smith says also since the specific gravity of creosote is greater than that of water that 99% of all reaching the water will sink and that only the remaining 1% will be visible on the surface. He states that his company is anxious to cooperate in any reasonable way with local citizens and officials and that it craves the good will of the public generally. His company, according to Mr. Smith, has gone to considerable expense at different times in attempting to prevent or lessen the amount of chemical from the tie plant entering the water but, as stated above, to completely stop it would be almost an impossibility. Railroads and county governments, he says, are using creosoted bridge timbers almost exclusively now and some creosote gets into the streams from this source. In other words, Mr. Smith does not feel that his company should shoulder the entire responsibility for pollution of the waters.

The letter to Dr. Hand and his report, referred to above, the former dated at Tie Plant Sept. 20th, 1928, an the latter dated at Agricultural College October 12, 1928, follow. Both are self-explanatory and need no comment. The letter, addressed to the state chemist, is worded as follows:

"We have expresed to you today four, one-gallon cans of water taken from Bogue Creek under the supervision of Mr. J. J. Hardy, who claims this water is so contaminated that his stock will not drink it. Mr. Hardy's place is about four miles from our place by stream. We would like to have you analyze this water and advise if you find evidence of coal tar creosote oil, and if so do you consider it unfit for stock to drink.

"If there is any expense to the analysis of this water please mail bill to Ayer & Lord Tie Co., Tie Plant, Miss.

"Will thank you to give this matter attention as early as possible."

Dr. Hand's report of the analysis follows:

"Analysis No. 92476-77-78-79.
"Analysis of WATER.
Marked: No Mark.
"Received on 9-22-28.
from The Ayer & Lord Tie Co.
"Address Tie Plant, Miss.
"RESULTS

"Dear Sirs:—

"We have now been enabled to make some tests for cresols in the four samples of water received some time ago, and we cannot detect the presence of cresols in any of them.

"Our analyist reports that he has proved that the test used by him will detect one part of cresol in ten million parts of water.

"Of course odor and taste are frequently much more delicate than any kind of chemical test, and it may be possible that the taste and odor of the water are objectionable to the cattle. Of course we cannot speak with reference to this point, but we are unable to detect cresols in any of the samples.

"Assuring you that we are glad to cooperate with you, I am

"Very truly yours,
" W. F. HAND."

Kentucky's Distinction

"ONLOOKER WRITES FROM STATE CAPITAL

apparently cheerful. He takes nothing seriously, if one is to judge by outward appearances, and still seems confident that his ideas will prevail as to road legislation. The Governor, if he really believes what he says about this question, is a man of great faith—he has that mustard seed faith about political questions—for there be few indeed who can figure anything else than ignominious failure for the Governor. The deadlock is unfortunate from many angles. It is not correctly interpreted abroad. It is costing the tax payers thousands and thousands of dollars. It is difficult to estimate what has been wasted and what is still being wasted on graveled highways, and it may be taken for granted that the counties and separate road districts will continue to build graveled roads until there is a state highway law different from what we have now.

Besides highway matters, there are other things that are just ahead in the legislative pathway, and among these is what action will be taken on the report of the committee on the Knox-Inman investigation, and whether or not the investigation of the present highway commissioners will come up for legislative review.

Between the battering rams of the Governor and the lower house, one hears something about caucuses for picking gubernatorial candidates for 1931, what is said to have taken place in each caucus. It is the opinion of your correspondent that there have been no caucuses by any of the socalled factions, and that there is an unusual hestitancy among the more thoughtful citizens about making any commitments on gubernatorial candidates. These sober thinking people see, as they have never seen before, what it means to have faction arrayed against faction, and there is an earnest desire, if possible, among this group to get away from this legislative deadlock and factional bombardment. Naturally there are some candidates in the grooming and the wise ones say that they "just know" "John Doe" will run again.

It is little less than strange psychology as to why the public as a rule is more disposed to censure the legislative branch of the government than they are the executive. This is true of the United States congress. It is true with warfare between governors and legislatures. Mr. Coolidge, in one of his recent magazine articles, says this, he thinks, is true because of the divided responsibility in congress and the individual responsibility of the President.

It is no uncommon thing to hear it said right here in Mississippi at the present time, "The legislature ought to go home and stay there; they just do not appear to know how to do anything". Frequently this kind of a statement is made by ones who are not now and never have been friends of the head of the present state government. As already stated, it is a psychology that is difficult to understand.

feed. With this in mind our dairymen this spring increased the acreage planted to feed to the extent that many of them will have but little if any feed to buy this winter which goes to prove that our farmers have been studying the business of farming and incidentally of making money and have arrived at the conclusion that dairying will take a leading part in revolutionizing our farming business.

Oh yes, cotton is still king in Grenada county from actual money values. But the king is sitting on a wabbly throne just now. Revolution is at work and it will be a new queen this time that will lead an economically poor people out of their bondage and present to them their heritage of a new kingdom that carries with it a background of meadows, cows and dairies and a foreground of better living, better homes and more money. The dairy cow is, of course, the new queen of this new arrangement.

stands is for the lawmaking part to disband. Let our governor be idle and have time to meditate and our legislators go home and go to plowing or following their own private business. Then in the next election I hope we can send a body of men down to Jackson who have the interests of the whole state at heart and who will profit by the mistakes of the present administration, and who will lay aside everything else except the consideration of the welfare of the state as a whole. We can elect a governor who won't have the idea of "rule or ruin" and one who will follow the wishes of the people and then we shall have a governor and a legislature who will work together. But if our governor will follow the suggestions outlined above, that is, step down and out and go back to the ministry, the already overburdened taxpayers will not have to wait two and a half years more for something in the way of road legislation to be accomplished.

I believe in the very best of everything. We should have the very best roads that money can build and the best schools, but we want a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. Under the present situation I don't feel like that we are getting it or can get it.

Let's work together or quit.

Respectfully.

BRINGS HOME 22-LB. CATFISH

Taking advantage of the half-holiday Thursday of last week, Dr. R. A. Clanton, his son, Buster, and H. H. Heath and his brother, Cas Edgar, hied themselves to Walnut Lake in Tallahatchie county for an afternoon of fishing. That night when they returned home, they brought with them a 22-lb. catfish which it was claimed Mr. Heath caught on a casting rod, using a live perch as bait. Now, The Sentinel would not undertake to disparage anything either of these four would say, but a 22-lb. fish is a whopper. A Sentinel representative has talked with all of the four except Buster Clanton—and he hasn't been seen by the writer since that day—and they all tell practically the same story about how the fish struck the bait, how hard he fought and how long and what difficulty they had in bringing him into the boat. If this paper could see Buster Clanton before going to press, it is safe to assert that he would give the real low-down on how the fish was secured for he is not quite old enough and hasn't been fishing long enough to become entitled to possession of the following license, so dear to all fishermen:

"The Bearer, having by reputation and long practice, coupled with a vivid imagination, exhibited all of the proper requirements therefor, is hereby empowered to Lie, Prevaricate and show every other Recklessness with the Truth, considered expedient by him, in connection with all matters relative to Fish and Fishing, for the current season, subject to certain conditions."

Walnut Lake is not far distant from the Tallahatchie River where many disappointed fishermen from time to time have made purchases of fine specimens of catfish, but this paper is going to leave it to the reader to form his own conclusions from this fish tale.

OUTING CLUB ELECTS

At its meeting held in the court house Monday evening, the Grenada County Outing Club elected S. H. Horton, president, R. E. Hall, vice-president, and F. S. Nason, secretary and treasurer. Those named on the board of directors were V. A. Bridgers, J. E. Carpenter, S. H. Horton, Zac Semmes, R. E. Hall, W. E. Johnson and W. M. Mitchell.

The club already owns one lake on the place of W. R. Baker, six miles northwest of Grenada, and purposes to build two others, one on V. A. Bridgers' place, twelve miles northwest, and the other on the J. E. Carpenter place, eighteen miles southeast. Work on these last two will be begun as soon as one-fourth of the capital stock has been paid in.

The Baker lake was stocked two years ago with government fish and as soon as the Bridgers and Carpenter lakes are completed, they, too, will be stocked with fish.

Membership in the club is now fixed at $50. As soon as the club's roster is filled, the membership fee will be advanced to $100. It, therefore, behooves those who would like to join to place their applications now with one of the officers.

BRUCE-BRYANT TRAIN HOLDUPS CAPTURED

These men were escaped convicts from the state penitentiary and are now serving time. There is a third suspect who has not yet been captured.

FAILURE TO GET SENTINEL CAUSES LOSS OF PATIENCE

Editor Sentinel

My patience is exhausted waiting for an issue of The Sentinel to reach me. This is all through no fault of yours, but instead, due to the many changes of address within the past sixty days.

I believe it safe to assert that for the next ninety days I'll be here at the President's Summer Camp, and if you will be so kind in directing a few issues of The Sentinel here until further notice, and after I've read them, I'll lay them so conspicuously the President will sure observe and read a publication of interest.

CHECK VARMINT WAR

Are Needed In East to Destroy Rodents.

For some years there has been a systematic campaign in the east against socalled "varmints," especially crows, hawks and owls. The crusade has been largely sponsored by ammunition houses desiring to sell more of their cartridges. Now comes Dr. Witmer Stone, zoologist of the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences, with the declaration that unless there is a sharp restriction on the killing of hawks, owls and foxes, the east will suffer very soon from destructive epidemics of rats and mice. These birds and the fox consume 10 times as many rodents as they do poultry and game birds.

REVIVAL AT SPARTA CHURCH

Rev. W. J. Wood, pastor of the Holcomb circuit, is conducting the annual series of services at Sparta church. These annual meetings have been in progress at most of the country churches for many, many years. The Sparta church enjoys a unique record in this respect in that it is still adhering to old standards and keeping up customs in regard to the church that were so highly prized by their foreparents. Mr. Wood is greatly beloved by his people, and aside from being far above the average in the pulpit, is a fine man and endeavors to walk humbly in the sight of God and man.

SABATINI, excellent historian and accomplished romancer, uncovered a mine of rare material for stories when he began delving into the life of that remarkable personage, Cesare Borgia. While the dominating, sinister, magnificent duke is not the hero of this tale, his personality pervades it from beginning to end.
